Research Recognition:

In 2018, I was attacked in Campus Reform, click here.

In 2016, I was attacked in Accuracy in Media, click here.

In 2014, my book First Do No Harm elicited widespread discussion in the Croatian and Bosnian press. A petition was presented to the Croatian president, which criticized my book and also a top presidential aide who had written a positive review of the book; the petition urged that the aide should be fired for his review. For details, click here.

In 2013, the State Department's Office of the Historian published a new 900-page book of documents on the Congo Crisis, in response to my criticisms of previous State Department publications, which I claimed had whitewashed US covert operations in the Congo. The Federation of American Scientists's Secrecy News described the controversy, which led to State's new publication, click here.

In 2011, I was attacked at length on Breitbart News, click here.

In 2002, I participated in a debate with Robert Jervis, former president of the American Political Science Association, regarding the influence of the CIA in academia. The debate took place on the radio and television show Democracy Now. For an audio file of the debate, click here.

In 1999, I initiated a public debate in international relations theory, concerning the issue of political biases in favor of US hegemony. Articles on this debate have appeared in the Chronicle of Higher Education, Lingua Franca, and the Los Angeles Times, among other publications. The debate elicited responses from Robert Keohane, Bruce Russett, Bruce Cumings, Irene Gendzier, Joseph Nye, Robert Jervis, Craig Murphy, and Arthur Schlesinger Jr. For link to this debate, click here.

Numerous interviews in the international media (see above for details).
